To Whom It May Concern:

We are pleased to announce the iron and manganese levels on Broken Bow Lake has been dropping. The current level that was tested at the water treatment plant for November 10, 2025 is: Raw water .003 mg/l and the Finish water is .009 mg/l. These results are our normal readings for this time of the year. Just a reminder the EPA's recommended MCL is 0.300 mg/L for manganese in finished water.

Thank You,
